Clay figure of Tson-Kha-pa in museum at Arbai-Kher

75 76-77 Celestial beings bearing symbols of happiness: detail of mural paintings in smaller temple at Erdeni-Tsu 79 The goddess Tara: detail of stone slab bearing polychrome en-78-

gravings of the gods in vicinity of burial ground at Ulan-Bator

80-81 Detail of mural paintings at Erdeni-Tsu

Wooden carvings of yaks by folk-artists

Papier mâché statue of Padmasambhava, founder of Lamaism, at Choidjin Lamin Sume Buddha resisting temptation: detail from painting on canvas at

Statue of Ondor-gegen at Choidiin Lamin Sume 86

Buddhist apostles: detail from painting on canvas at Erdeni-Tsu Mahassidha, Indian magician: detail from painting on canvas at Erdeni-Tsu

The Patron of Horses: polychrome wooden figure at Erdeni-Tsu

80 Mask of god used in Tsam religious dance

Gon-po, one of the 'terrible gods': polychrome wooden figure at 90

91-93 Masks worn for the Tsam dances 94 Silver head ornament for woman in traditional style

Typical Mongolian saddle Saddle ornaments

96-99 Mongolian yurts used as permanent residences Traditional Mongolian boots 98-

100

Camels by an obo, or shamanistic cairn

Back view of Mongolian showing objects attached to his belt 102

Tinder-box and pipe filler 103

Trinket of gilded silver and coral 104 Shepherds on the Orkhon

Brazier of traditional type 106

Old woman collecting cattle dung

108-109 Mongolian violin or Morin-hur

IIO Close-up of door of yurt

A guest is always offered kumiss, salted tea with milk, arkhi, and several kinds of cheese

112 A marmot hunter

Toy horses made by shepherds 114 A smoker

115 Skin bag used in preparing kumiss

Example of folk carving from Northern Gobi

Similar ornament on the gates in Ulan Bator

118 Shepherds with lasso

A nomadic family on the move 120 Horse and camel caravan in the steppe

Typical Mongolian shepherd 121

122-123 Catching an unbroken horse Tethered camels 124

The Mongolian Gobi

Scene before the unveiling of a new suburgan in Ulan-Bator 126

Lamas hastening to the ceremony 128 Members of a lama orchestra

Lama bearing a vessel of holy water and the Wheel of Law 129

Altar with thank-offerings under a baldachin 130

Wrestler from Inner Mongolia 132 Competitor about to loose his arrow during the archery contest in the Nadom at Ulan-Bator

The umpires' tent 133

Archery still-life 134

An arrow is released

Ceremonial costume worn by those participating in the wrestling 136

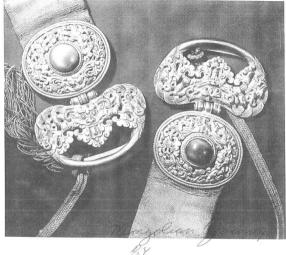

The umpires signal a hit during the archery contest

138-139 Final stages in the children's horse race 140-141 The little girl who came second in the children's race 142

A tense moment during the wrestling The victor executes an eagle leap 143

A Mongolian lama 144

LUMIR JISL. Trans Called by TILL GOTTHEINER

